Welcome

For many of the 1,400 visiting high school students, this will be the first time they have seen the University newspaper. We want to extend a warm welcome.

The New York Times recently called Missoula the "cultural center of Montana," and we hope you will find it so. Our doors are open and you should not hesitate sticking your noses in.

If you plan to attend college next fall, or even the year after, this is a golden opportunity to meet people and ask questions.

This Post-Victorian Age

High School students milling around the campus this week-end will supposedly be impressed by the well-dressed University women.

The reason for the "appropriate grooming"—meaning no Capri pants, bermudas, jamaicas, or short shorts—is the reinforcement of an old AWS (Associated Women Students) ruling which prohibits such unladylike apparel.

Girls are forced to submit to Victorian ideals in a post-Victorian age.

Needless to say, there are college campuses which allow bermudas in class. This may be going a bit far, although when girls are allowed to wear slacks during finals, they feel more comfortable and better able to concentrate in the warm spring weather. And what harm is there in wearing casual sportswear after classes and between Friday noon and Monday morning?

Perhaps we will impress some visiting students in our dainty spring frocks, but when they see one of the knock-kneed, hairy-limbed frat men descending upon them in the latest style—bermudas, we doubt if the impression will last. —A.M.

The Lost Zero

The Kaimin reported Patti Jo Shaw was awarded a $1,500 wardrobe, but a minor mistake was made. One zero was left off. Miss Shaw was awarded a $15,000 wardrobe—an automobile, expense-paid fashion shows and a trip to Paris.

When asked how she feels, now that all the cheering has died down a little, she said, "I am still a bit confused and embarrassed by the publicity . . . and perhaps a bit scared."

Miss Shaw plans to finish out the quarter and then start a year of tours through the United States and France.

We asked what her big moment was, she thought a second, and answered, "When I came to Missoula and saw all the students who turned out to greet me. I am very grateful for their reception." —RYHO

State University of Iowa

To a question of why more non-journalism students are not on the staff of The Daily Iowan, Arthur M. Sanderson, instructor in editorial journalism and faculty supervisor of the editorial staff, commented: "We would welcome more people on the staff, but you don't just haul people in off the streets and let them put out a newspaper." There is a problem of having too many assignments to spread among too few students, with the result that there is not enough time for more depth reporting, he said.

University of Washington

Students at the U of Washington honored their parents last week-end with a three-day program of discussions about the university as well as varied entertainment. A faculty panel discussion on student-parent-faculty relationships, curriculum, building programs and future academic policies was presented in an endeavor to convey the seriousness of the university to the parents.

University of Utah

In order to obtain a general catalog of the U of Utah, students must buy them for $.50 a copy. This year's catalog was made available at the earliest date it has been ready in recent years, according to the Daily Utah Chronicle. The 385-page books went on sale last Thursday.

An editorial in the Chronicle advised students, in regard to the U2 "spy case" not to lose their perspective. The government's action was ill-timed, "but before we fall prey to a mass complex of self-persecution, we might well ask ourselves the question recently asked by columnist William S. White: 'Is the unarmed aircraft the equivalent of the bloody Russian suppression of Hungary?'"

"Is it possible that the home of the most massive and malignant espionage system in all history, the Soviet Union, can put our small efforts into such vast discredit?" "The answers are obvious. Why then, not answer them?"

Colorado State University

The Colorado Legislative Committee on Education Beyond High School has made three recommendations regarding out-of-state students entering CSU and other Colorado supported institutions of higher learning. They are that Colorado supported colleges and universities should limit out-of-state entering freshmen to 20 per cent of total freshmen; out-of-state undergraduate applicants should be limited scholastically to the upper half of those ordinarily eligible; and out-of-state undergraduates be required to pay from 60 to 90 per cent of the cost of their education.

Incoming Freshmen Can Begin Exams as High School Senior

By VERN NELSON

Entering freshmen are now able to complete part of their college entrance testing program during their senior year in high school. These tests cover English, social studies, mathematics and science.

Leo Smith, registrar, said that if the freshmen have taken the American College Testing Program examination prior to Orientation Week they would have more free time during this busy period for other activities.

These tests were administered in November, February and April at 18 testing centers in Montana. If a student missed the tests on these dates he should make an attempt to take them this summer at one of the seven participating colleges around the state, Mr. Smith said.

High school students should contact any of the following colleges for information on time and place of the examinations: Carroll College, Helena; College of Great Falls; Eastern Montana College of Education, Billings; Montana State College, Bozeman; Montana State University, Missoula; Northern Montana College, Havre; and Western Montana College of Education, Dillon.

By taking advantage of this testing program, the high school senior may have the results sent to any three colleges or universities in the country. The high school and the student also receive the test results.

Through this program the University has already received about 1,200 information cards from the central correcting agency in Iowa City, Iowa. Since these cards are from students who indicated the University as their first, second or third choice, Mr. Smith said he would be surprised if more than half of the 1,200 actually registered next fall.

Mr. Smith said that the infor-

Strictly a Track Meet

Interscholastic Meet of 1904 Was a Far Cry From Present

By JOHN BENNITT

The first Interscholastic Meet was a far cry from the gathering of over a thousand students from all parts of Montana at the University this weekend.

That first meet in 1904 was strictly a track meet—no dramatics, no debate, no academic competition. Today the meet schedules a Little Theater Festival, golf competition, tennis, speech events, the Montana Interscholastic Editorial Association and, of course, track and field.

Attracted 200

Those first meets attracted barely 200 athletes per meet in the first 10 years. But, the local merchants, even as today, took advantage of the visiting students and displayed their outstanding wares.

A local theater sought to detract high school students from the games in 1913 by advertising Miss Svea Hallgren singing "My Turkish Opal from Constantinople." Special trains were run on the final day of the meet from Butte and Hamilton to Missoula. Topping off the weekend of festivity in 1913 was a joy ride in automobiles for each and every contestant from the University to Fort Missoula and back.

Through the years the theater festival, the Editorial Association meeting, debate, other speech events, golf and tennis were added. By 1933, 417 athletes from 97 schools trekked to the University in spite of the depression.

Classes Established

Track and field contestants competed regardless of the size of their high school until 1939 when two classes based on high school enrollments were established.

and 1943-45 the annual meet was not held.

After the second World War the meet boomed again as never before. More than 1,500 high school students arrived in Missoula in May of 1946 for the meet, and the number has increased every year since. By 1958 the number of contestants in track and field had grown to such a number that state divisional meets were held to limit the number of contestants.

This year the meet includes an intrasquad football game, the Newman Club songfest, living group decorations, a barbecue, dances and a production of the All-School show "Oklahoma!" Early meets had their share of color too, but perhaps in a different vein.

Athletic Scandal

The first meet held in 1904 brought quite a scandal to high school athletic circles that is strangely reminiscent of intercollegiate athletics at some colleges in this country. Missoula County High School, the winning school that year, was accused, and evidence was presented to support the charge, of "hiring" two athletes. The mercenaries were, according to the charges, too old to be in high school and furthermore were not from Missoula. Nevertheless, Missoula High School won the trophy.

In later years Idaho high schools were invited to compete in the meet, and did so with some success.

Nearly 2,000 high school students contestants and chaperones have arrived on campus. Some records will fall, others will be recalled with veneration.

Oratorical Contest Finals Will be Wednesday in LA

The finals of the Aber Memorial Oratorical contest will be Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. in LA 204.

Final contestants are Charles Vick, Tom Mongar, Rodger Garrett, Richard Harger, Homer Staves and John Wertz.

The semi-finals were last Wednesday. The thirteen contestants were divided into two sections and the three top speakers of each section will take part in the finals.

Contestants Strive to Break Records

By JOHN BENNITT

This afternoon at 1 over 600 Montana high school athletes will march around Dornblaser Stadium opening the 54th annual Inter-scholastic Meet.

Shortly after, the starter's gun will send finalists around the track twice in the afternoon's first event—the 880-yard run. By late Friday afternoon, winners in the Class AA, A, B and C 880 yard race and mile run will be known. Other final events Friday include the Class B and C pole vault and the Class AA and A high jump. All other events Friday will be preliminary contests.

If previous records mean anything, Gregor of Helena and Jakub of Missoula will grab the honors in the Class AA 880 yard run.

In Class A competition, Landes of Glasgow and Plenty Hoops of Hardin will be the runners to watch in the half mile.

Another Hardin boy, Pretty Paint, and his teammate Plenty Hoops are expected to set the pace in the Class A mile run. Their times are both slightly over 4:40. The Class AA mile shouldn't be as close if the record means anything. Missoula's ace miler Jakub has a record of 4:38.5 in the four laps around the track. Next on the list is Belue of Billings with 4:45.8.

The Class AA high jump may see a new record broken. Mike Huggins of Kalispell has been flirting with the 6 foot 5 inch mark all season and he could go higher.

The Class A pole vault will be a tight battle. Sundling of Dawson and Zeiler of Hardin have records within an inch of each other, Sundling's 10 foot 7 inch mark being the better.

Saturday's finals, if runners hold true to form, should see Questad of Livingston take the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes. He has posted times of 10.1 and 22.2 in both events. Right on his heels is O'Leary of Butte Central with times of 10.2 and 22.4.

Dawson Best in Class A

In Class A Opp of Dawson has the best time for any Montana high school athlete this year in the century dash. His record is a good 9.9.

In the discus, Edington of Butte and Hysell of Helena are expected to win. Both have come close or surpassed the 160 mark. In Class A competition Carlson of Custer and McMorris of Sidney boast the top marks this spring. Class B is led by Dennison of Thompson Falls and Carter of Absarokee. Class C is led by Wirtz of Corvallis and Heikkila of Chester. All have thrown the discus well over 140 feet.

The pole vault will see Doan and Baum of Billings lead Class AA if past records are any indication. Both have come close to the 12 foot mark.

Class B vaulters are led by Thompson of Polson and Aubrey of Shelby. Both are near the 11 foot 6 inch mark.

The low hurdles will be won by Questad of Livingston in Class AA, Green of Dawson in Class A, Heddich of Hamilton in Class B and in Class C, Hewett of Troy. All have posted marks of 21 seconds or less.

The high hurdles will see a close race in all four Classes.

In Class AA Sarisky of Livingston has the best record with a time of 15.3. Class A hurdlers are led by Coulter of Laurel, Class B by Jobe of Loyola of Missoula and Class C by Hewett of Troy. All are under 16 seconds.

Johnson Top Contender

The top contender for the javelin honors is Johnson of Troy who may easily break the state record. He has tossed the spear 210 feet in a dual meet this spring.

One of the closest battles in Class AA competition will be between Christison of Flathead and Miller of Great Falls in the javelin throw. Both boys have hit the 194 foot mark this spring.

Class A spear-throwers are led by Hunton of Custer who has thrown the spear over 170 feet. In Class B Tashaus of Libby could beat every javelin thrower this year. He has a record of 198 feet.

The broad jump will be another close event. Class B's Bauman of Fairview has leaped 21 feet, 9 inches this season. Close behind in Class A are Shea of Butte Central Combs of Custer and Flinders of Corvallis. All have exceeded the 21 foot mark except Flinders who is only an inch and a half short.

Helena's Tom Kenney leads state quarter-milers with a time of 50.4 seconds. Kenney won the event last year.

Shotput Record Should Fall

But the event that promises to be most exciting is the shotput. Three Class AA shotputters have broken the state record this season, and by good margins. Leading the pack is Wayne Estes of Anaconda with a heave of 56 feet, 11 1/4 inches. Helena's Cliff Hysell is close behind with a push of 55 feet, 10 inches.

Predicting the winning team will not be easy. Helena looked sharp in last weekend's divisional meet, but so did Billings. Missoula is a dark horse in Class AA competition.

In Class A, Hardin and Custer look tough. Loyola of Missoula may easily win the Class B title. And Class C is impossible to predict, as usual.

Lehrkind Leads Grizzly Tennis Team to First Win

The Grizzlies won their first tennis match of the season yesterday with a 4 to 3 victory over Utah State University.

An upset win by Carl Lehrkind, Montana's number three man, pushed the Grizzlies to the victory. Lehrkind had to go three full sets to beat Utah's Ralph Christiansen. He won 6-2, 6-1, and lost one 2 to 6.

Mike Hogarty and Don Hubbard won as predicted in their singles and doubles matches. Hogarty downed Richard Harris of Utah 6-1 and 6-3 and Hubbard beat Bob Lewis 11-9 and 6-4.

Hogarty and Hubbard swept the doubles from Lewis and Jay Cheney 6-1 and 6-2.

Lehrkind and Bill Corette lost their doubles match to Utah's Harris and Richey 6-3 and 6-2.

Nau Wins Split Decision Over Bockman

There were 11 M-Club fights last night and each seemed to be better than the last. Bloody, brawling, and exciting.

The packed crowd of fight fans filled the Field House last night with cheers and cat-calls as the occasion warranted. But they were never silent.

In the main-event Don Nau, of Western Montana College, took a split decision from Montana Bockman, of MSU, in a fight that saw the crowd turn against Bockman, the local favorite, after he tried to squeeze the fight out of Nau.

Bockman had the fans cheering for him when he folded Nau with a solid over-head right, his first punch in the opening round. The ex-Grizzly football player had his Kalispell opponent in trouble and he tried to end the fight right there but Billy McFarlane, the referee, pulled Bockman away from Nau.

Nau threw a stiff left in the round that seemed to slow Bockman, but both men were beginning to feel the strain by the time the third and final round ended.

Near the end of the round Bockman pushed Nau into the ropes and started to squeeze his opponent over them. This was the first incident that displeased the crowd, although it was almost forgotten when Nau took a swing at Bockman after the bell had sounded to end the first round.

Bockman again took to the pushing and squeezing tactics in the second round and the crowd began to hoot in response to the action. McFarlane warned Bockman about this during the round.

By the third round the crowd seemed undecided about who to back but Bockman lowered his head and charged into Nau's stomach to make the decision. They were booing Bockman.

Nau had opened the round with a good left-jab followed by a hard right and then both fighters moved in close with a strong exchange of punches. Nau threw a stiff left in the round that seemed to slow Bockman, but both men were beginning to feel the strain by the

Grizzlies Divide Aggie Twin-Bill

The Grizzlies split a double-header with the Utah State University Aggies yesterday.

The Aggies took the opener 8-5, but Montana came back 12-8 in the second game.

Montana scored three runs off a homer by Butch Hendricks in the sixth inning of the opener and another three runs in the second game when Terry Screnar homered in the fourth.

time the third and final round ended.

Even with the pushing and the squeezing it was the fight the crowd had come to see. They didn't seem dissatisfied.

The preliminary finals were as follows:

Walt Venum, TKO over Dale Lumsdun; Bobby Thompson, split decision over Richard Bray; Ernie

MSU Summer Workshops Scheduled

By VERN NELSON

The end of spring quarter may be less than three weeks away for most, but for some students it will mean just another weekend. The summer session, beginning June 13, will attract around 1,500, including approximately 300 students currently attending the University.

While most students are either working or relaxing during the summer, the summer students will engage in many fields of study. The education department is offering the largest selection of courses. E. A. Atkinson, director of the summer session, said this is because around 1,000 of the 1,500 summer students will be teachers.

The University attracts many teachers from outside Montana.

Last year, Mr. Atkinson said, there were about 300 out-of-state teachers attending the summer session. The Northwest states and the Dakotas had the largest representation last year. California led with 57.

There will be over 100 professors on campus for the summer session, Mr. Atkinson said. The education school will have the services of over 30.

About 50 graduating high school seniors are expected to start their college education during the summer session instead of waiting until fall. Mr. Atkinson said that a student who is interested in getting his degree earlier than normal could attend three consecutive summer sessions, thereby finishing the BA requirements in three years.

Another reason for attending the summer session is that a change of major could mean that the student would have to make up some of the prerequisites for a new major. The student may desire to take courses that he did not have room for on his schedule during the regular school year.

A number of special institutes and workshops will be carried on throughout the summer session. Four institutes will be supported by government funds.

The National Defense Education Act Institute for High School Counselors, under the direction of Robert Gorman, director of the University Counseling Center, will meet for the full ten-week term.

The National Defense Education Act Institute for High School Teachers of French and Spanish will meet June 20 to Aug. 13. This institute, under the direction of Robert Burgess, chairman of the foreign language department, will have 20 students in the French section and 20 in the Spanish section.

The National Science Foundation will sponsor the Atomic Energy Commission Institute in Radiation Biology for high school science teachers. The institute will be at the Biological Station on Flathead Lake June 18 to Aug. 13. Fifteen students will attend.

The National Science Foundation will also sponsor an Institute for High School Mathematics Teachers. Frederick Young, associate professor of mathematics, is the director. This institute will last the full ten weeks.

There will be several art, drama, and music workshops throughout the session. The high school art, ballet and music camps will enable high school students to become familiar with University life.

The library workshop will deal with "The Library as the Instructional Materials Center." The workshops will be July 18-29 under the direction of Richard Darling, coordinator of library services in the Livonia, Mich., schools.

The eleventh Conservation Education Workshop will be at the Biological Station July 18 to August 20. The home economics department will feature a workshop on the Bishop method of Clothing construction July 18-29.

The speech department will be host to the Montana High School Speech Camp June 20 to July 8. The activities will include public speaking, debate, declamation, choral speaking, voice and diction and dramatic production.

The National Education Association, in collaboration with the Montana Education Association, will sponsor a Tour Seminar June 23 to Aug. 3. There will be a three-day pack trip into the Bob Marshall Wilderness area.
